REPORTING THE WORLD:

a life of public engagement

Thursday, December 4

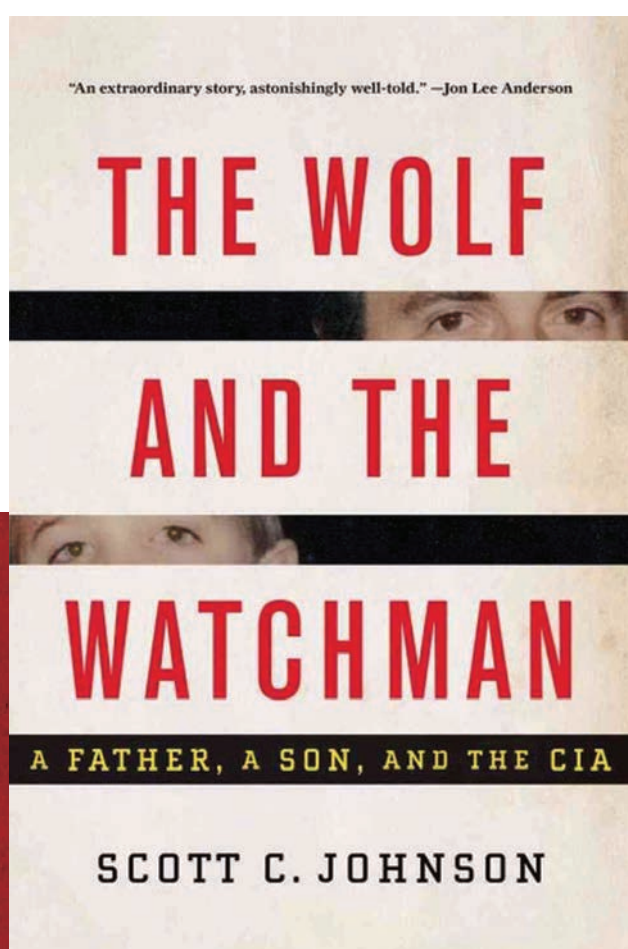

4:30pm-5:30pm

Christie Theatre, University Union

SPEAKER:

Scott C. Johnson

Scott C. Johnson is an American journalist who worked for 12 years as a Newsweek foreign correspondent and bureau chief. He has reported from more than fifty countries and published articles on topics ranging from Iraqi insurgents, electoral violence in Kenya, and the Central American child migrant crisis. Johnson's first book, a memoir titled "The Wolf and the Watchman: A Father, A Son, and the CIA," was included on the Long List for the National Book Award.

Copies of "The Wolf and the Watchman: A Father, A Son and the CIA" are available at the Phoenix Bookstore.
