

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Editor's column: Comics, Culture, and Context vii

ARTICLES

“Piece it all together and it’s barely a quarter of the puzzle”:
Design, Arthrology, and Transtextuality in Seth’s
It’s a Good Life If You Don’t Weaken 1
Dale Jacobs

Succeeding in the Super Biz: The Subaltern Superhero in Jaime Hernandez’s God and Science 25
Oswaldo Oyola

How Do Comics Tell History? 49
Kultej Dhariwal

Breaking Boundaries: [Non]-Declarative Identities
in Gilbert Hernandez’s Julio’s Day 77
Marina Vlahaki

Marvel Team-Up: Hawkeye, Loki and the Inescapable, Innate
Resistance of the Female Superhero Comic Fan 95
Matthew Cicci

The Punishment of War: Marvel Comics’ The Punisher and the Evolving Memory of Vietnam 123
Andrew J. Friedenthal

The Adventures of Wallace and Clark: Superheroic
Correlations in Stevens’ “Notes Toward a Supreme Fiction” . . . 151
Tom Miller

Learning to “MARCH” – Selma 1965 and its Legacy 169
Katie Todd

WORKS IN PROGRESS

Wolves in the City – The Algerian War and Colonialism in Comics	175
Geo Sipp

REVIEWS

Review of Nick Sousonis The Unflattening The Medium Is the Mindspace	191
A. David Lewis
Two Views of Wonder Woman: Reviews of Jill LePore's The Secret History of Wonder Woman and Noah Berlatsky's Wonder Woman: Bondage and Feminism in the Marston/Peter Comics, 1941-1948
The Other Never-Ending Battle: BDSM and Wonder Woman's Feminism	201
Anthony Michael D'Agostino
Separating the Feminist Icon and the Comic Book Character: Marston's Wonder Woman and Feminism	207
Kristi Fleetwood
List of Contributors	211
Call for Papers	213