

REPRODUCTION POLICIES AND FEES

University Archives & Special Collections

Joseph P. Healey Library | University of Massachusetts Boston

What may be copied

In order to facilitate use of its collections, University Archives and Special Collections of the University of Massachusetts Boston provides copying and scanning services. Conservation concerns, however, dictate that some methods of duplication are inappropriate for some types of material. The final decision as to whether or not an item is too fragile to be copied will be made by the archivist.

All orders are subject to the availability of staff time and resources. Certain collections have additional rules governing reproduction; these will be noted on the Application and Rules of Use for Archival Material form.

Copyright Restrictions

This department reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if, in its judgment, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of copyright law. The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies. Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not to be “used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research.” If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of “fair use,” that user may be liable for copyright infringement.
