

Name is very large, so the professor can see it from a distance. First and last name are included. Use name as it appears in Blackboard, with preferred names in parenthesis if different.

Firstname Lastname

Homework for Day 5

Day is accurate and clearly labeled.

4:00pm section

Section time is included.

Answers are organized and numbered.

1. When it comes to question number one, here is my answer. I include the number for the question, but I don't have to copy the question – I can just start answering. I am not copy/pasting anything here, because I know that if I do that without attribution to the source, I risk getting kicked out of the class and earning a failing grade. I have clearly thought about what I want to say about this point and I am answering all parts of the question. If the question has multiple parts that may result in a confusing answer, I can use bullet points.

- Here's a thought.
- Here's a related thought, with some detail.

2. When it comes to question number two, here is my answer. I include the number for the question, but I don't have to copy the question – I can just start answering. I am not copy/pasting anything here, because I know that if I do that without attribution to the source, I risk getting kicked out of the class and earning a failing grade. I have clearly thought about what I want to say about this point and I am answering all parts of the question. If the question has multiple parts that may result in a confusing answer, I can use bullet points.

3. When it comes to question number three, here is my answer. I include the number for the question, but I don't have to copy the question – I can just start answering. I am not copy/pasting anything here, because I know that if I do that without attribution to the source, I risk getting kicked out of the class and earning a failing grade. I have clearly thought about what I want to say about this point and I am answering all parts of the question. If the question has multiple parts that may result in a confusing answer, I can use bullet points.