

Given the points $(1, 2)$, $(2, 4)$, and $(3, 5)$, find the equation of the line that gives the least squares solution to the above points. That is the line that minimizes the sum of squares of the differences of the above y values from those given by plugging the above x values into the equation of the line.