ALAN LEVIN, FORMER CEO HAPPY HARRY'S

Mergers & Acquisitions, Entrepreneurship and Innovation within Delaware

Alan Levin, a Delaware native, spent his career working within both the private and public sectors. After assuming leadership of his family's business, Happy Harry's, Levin helped grow the company to the 10th largest drugstore chain nationally. After negotiating Happy Harry's acquisition by Walgreens in 2006, Levin was appointed to lead the Delaware Economic Development Office. In this role, he helped the state recover from the Great Recession.

Today, Levin is involved in entrepreneurial ventures and business development within Delaware and the Mid-Atlantic region. He joins us to share his insights and experiences from a vast career in business, entrepreneurship and governmental affairs.
