

Remote presentations

Jesus Mancilla
Senior UX Researcher
Walmart Labs

Who am I?

Overview

Quick takes

- You should prepare as if it was a in-person presentation
- Presentations are about what you say not the text in the slides
- Practice!
- Prepare your physical space
- Prepare the material for +/- 50% of the scheduled time

Benefits?

- This might be our new normal take the best out of it (better coffee!)
- If you have social phobia, you are in you safe zone
- You know your equipment
- You don't have to wear pants (apparently)

BUSINESS

Walmart Reports Increased Sales In Tops, Not Bottoms, As More People Telework

March 28, 2020 · 7:59 AM ET
Heard on Weekend Edition Saturday

SCOTT SIMON

Advice from experience

A.k.a. My mistakes:

- Close the door, and don't face a window
- Keep your camera open and your image close to the webcam
- We all have one terrible presentation

Practice
Makes
Improvement

Transitions

Takeaways

- Know your subject
- Setup a workspace where you feel comfortable
- Use the slides as a visual aid
- Remember that there are people on the other side
- Engage as much as possible

Questions?

Thank you

Let's connect:
hello@jgmancilla.com