Responses (4 of 7)

He is very supportive of our learning, ALWAYS available to answer an email or schedule office hours, and very willing to answer questions. He is also good at reading the room to make sure everyone is following along and will try to explain differently if something wasn't clear. He is also very receptive to feedback at any time and is willing to schedule office hours and deadlines around our needs and preferences which is very helpful and makes it easier to take the time to really understand what we are learning.

He was good overall but the exams and assignments were tough. And he is a very hard grader.

None

Sebi is a very capable professor. He would vary what he taught according to our needs. At the same time, ye will also give us more help according to our actual situation. Both the office hour and the progress of the course are very good.

The course is really enjoyable and is the only course I look forward to (despite how early it is). It is nice that the textbook matches up with the material so closely.

It was average.

None

The course is excellent, and both the speed of teaching and the expansion of knowledge is very helpful to me. At the same time, Sebi will also adjust our teaching speed according to our learning speed.

Question ID: 18309

What advice would you give the students that will take this course next semester ?

Responses (6 of 7)

Be willing to speak up for yourself. This course is not a prelim course so there is a lot more room to accommodate student needs. If you ask then Sebi is going to at least try to help.

Follow the classes properly and be regular with assignments.

B

It won't be taught next semester

It may get very difficult to keep up with the course if student misses some classes.

Spending some time reading textbooks will improve the efficiency of learning
