

Institute for Public Health Summer Research Program

PUBLIC & GLOBAL HEALTH

Through this track, students further their interest in public or global health in lab or field-based settings, seminars and workshops, and by establishing a career-building network. Accepted students receive a stipend, lodging, and Metrolink transit pass.

WORK WITH TOP INVESTIGATORS

Get matched with a faculty mentor and receive career counseling

BUILD A NETWORK

Build a social network with student peers, faculty and staff

GAIN REAL-WORLD EXPERIENCE

Work in research environments, including international sites

ELIGIBILITY

- Open to national and international students who are full-time college undergraduates, graduate students, or medical students at a U.S.-based university
- Students who have challenged themselves and excelled academically; demonstrate experience overcoming substantial educational, cultural or economic obstacles; are first-generation college students; veterans or international students studying in the U.S. are encouraged to apply
- Previous research experience is not required

Apply today: publichealth.wustl.edu/summer

Application period: October 16, 2023-January 12, 2024 | Program period runs for eight weeks in summer 2024