

Collaborative to Advance Equity through Research

Friday, February 10, 2017

A Research & Learning Community-Working together to close the gaps in knowledge on women and girls of color

12 noon-4pm
Hale Center MLK Lounge

Collaborative @OSU Kick-Off Event

Friday, February 10, 2017

12noon-4pm

Hale Center, MLK Lounge

Patricia Hill Collins,
Distinguished Professor
The University of Maryland

The Collaborative @OSU is part of a national coalition of institutions committed to supporting and advancing research addressing the lives of women and girls of color.

We are excited to bring together OSU researchers to build a university-wide research and learning community focused on the lives of women and girls of color.

We are honored to have Professor Patricia Hill Collins, Distinguished University Professor at the University of Maryland and a leading scholar in the study of intersectionality as an analytical approach deliver the luncheon keynote address,

Sharpening Intersectionality's Critical Edge.

Following the keynote address, we will engage in breakout sessions aimed at building our research and learning community by identifying collective goals, research needs, and potential research collaborations.

This university-wide event is open to all OSU researchers. To attend the event, please RSVP by clicking here.

Lunch begins at 12noon and the program and keynote address will begin promptly at 12:30.

Visit u.osu.edu/collaborative for more information on Collaborative @OSU and equitythroughresearch.com/ to learn more about the national Collaborative to Advance Equity through Research.

For questions and more information contact Professor Wendy Smooth smooth.1@osu.edu.

RSVP by clicking here or Email smooth.1@osu.edu

Sponsored by Office of Diversity and Inclusion; Women's Gender & Sexuality Studies; & The Women's Place