Land Acknowledgement

The land that The Ohio State University occupies is the ancestral and contemporary territory of the Shawnee, Potawatomi, Delaware, Miami, Peoria, Seneca, Wyandotte, Ojibwe, and Cherokee peoples. The University resides on land ceded in the 1795 Treaty of Greeneville and the forced removal of tribes through the Indian Removal Act of 1830. We want to honor the resiliency of these tribal nations and recognize the historical context that has and continues to affect the Indigenous peoples of this land.

Primary Audience: Novice to intermediate Educational Researchers

With the first pick in the 2021 Journal Draft, you select...?

During this active workshop, participants will learn how to prepare manuscripts for publication and which factors to consider when looking for a journal for their manuscripts.

- Creation of video for best teaching practices

Monday, February 14, 2022, 12 – 1 p.m. CME: This event is certified for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit

Primary Audience: Novice health sciences educators

Come learn about the future of our new EdTech Incubator in the Health Sciences Library as well as gain helpful strategies in creating video to use within your courses and professional presentations. Facilitated by Sarah Rusnak, MS, RND, LD

- Trauma informed teaching practices

Thursday, February 24, 2022, 12 -1 p.m. CME: This event is certified for 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit

Audience: Novice to advanced health science educators

Students who have had traumatic experiences have a much more difficult time adjusting to college and graduate training; more health-related complaints; higher rates of depression, anxiety, and substance abuse. When we build our curricula using a trauma-informed approach, we can expect improved educational outcomes and we better support students, faculty and staff.

FAME Educator Development Program: Teaching and Curriculum Design

- One-year, cohort-based faculty development course to enhance skills in curriculum design and implementation
- Designed for clinical teaching faculty across the College of Medicine
