Filippo was born in Turin, Italy, where he completed both his B.S. and M.S. degrees at the University of Turin under the supervision of Prof. Cristina Prandi.

During his M.S. studies, Filippo spent six months at UC Berkeley as a visiting student in the group of Prof. Richmond Sarpong where he worked on the skeletal editing of nitrogen-containing heterocycles. Outside of the lab, he enjoys cooking, listening to true crime podcasts and traveling.
