American College of Healthcare Executives
for leaders who care®

Healthcare created more jobs than any other sector in 2016, helping to drive total annual job growth to 2.2 million according to data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics. In December 2016 alone, healthcare added 43,200 jobs. The industry accounted for 15.8 million jobs at the end of December. Healthcare continues to be a leading job producer and a good option for young people seeking careers.

With more than 1,600 associations calling Chicago home, over 162 management consulting positions in Chicago open as of the New Year, and the largest 125 U.S. health insurers collecting approximately $113 billion in premiums, this is the time for emerging leaders to examine new employment opportunities.

As emerging leaders enter the workforce, they have enormous career opportunities, but limited worldview as to what employment opportunities exist outside of the provider network. With the COVID-19 pandemic, the healthcare industry is experiencing financial threats to its operation. What should emerging leaders anticipate in the new healthcare environment? Listen to the experts discuss the changing healthcare landscape and its implications for employment.

This program introduces students to the employment possibilities in association, consulting, and insurance management. Come and meet the leaders in these industries who will discuss their visions and career opportunities.

Registration fee: Students $40.00, All Others $50.00

Racism & Health

Erikson and Quern Fellowships

Each summer, GPHAP arranges 10-week internships at the medical center (Erikson Fellowships) and provides opportunities for independent 10-week projects of your own design (Quern Fellowships). An information session about the application process and due dates for the Fellowships will be held on Friday, February 18 from 12:30 – 1:30 pm. Access the information session through this zoom link.

Funding for Attending Conferences

GPHAP has a small budget for student attendance at conferences. We can make this funding available for virtual as well as in-person conferences (in-person conferences for when it is safe to travel). These are small amounts of funding and you must be up-to-date on your co-curriculars and GPHAP courses to be eligible for this funding. The conference counts as a co-curricular, and the co-curricular reflection must be uploaded onto Canvas in order to receive the funding in the form of reimbursement. If anyone needs the funding to be provided up front, this can be arranged by contacting Laura at lbotwinick@uchicago.edu. The application for funding is here.

The Health Affairs Racism & Health virtual symposium will have panels of distinguished authors and experts will present their work and engage in discussions on the historical context, evolving research practices and policies, and the lived experience of populations whose health has been harmed by individual and structural racism.
