December 18, 2019: Health & Medicine Talks on Demystifying the Healthcare Debate

As we get closer to the 2020 elections, have you found yourself asking, 'What is Medicare for all? How would Single Payer change healthcare? What's a public option?' Many Democrats running for president as well as energized members of Congress are talking big about health care again. Which means lots of jargon, op-eds, and conflicting opinions.

Join us for our next Health & Medicine Talk on Wednesday, December 18th to unpack the various proposals for expanding healthcare. Guided by journalist and health policy expert Merrill Goozner, come away better informed about this crucial issue, the proposals on the table, and what could work to achieve healthcare for all.
