Student Spotlight – Katie Powell

Meet Katie Powell, GPHAP student and Erikson Fellow. This past summer Katie interned with C4P (Comprehensive Care, Community, and Culture Program), a research project out of UChicago Medicine that seeks to achieve better health outcomes for low-income individuals at high risk of hospitalization. One of the elements that C4P uses to achieve these improved health outcomes is offering patients access to social workers and a community health worker, in addition to access to a single doctor that provides them with both inpatient and outpatient treatment. During her time with C4P, she created a dashboard that brought data from different elements of the program's social services work into one centralized location. In theory, the dashboard she worked on will help to inform programmatic changes and staffing decisions. She loved being able to translate some of the on-the-ground work that the social services team was engaging in into metrics that could help inform future decisions.
