Wednesday, April 24 | 12:00-1:00 PM ET | CMS Innovation Center Person-Centered Listening Session Announcement | Register to attend webinar here

The CMS Innovation Center invites you to participate in a listening session, Person-Centered Listening Session: Leveraging Relationships with Community-Based Organizations to Meet Health-Related Social Needs on April 24, 2024. This event will feature Innovation Center leadership and other experts who will explore how community-based organizations are being leveraged to provide support to beneficiaries in meeting health-related social needs and share their impact on patient experience navigating care. We look forward to gathering the insights from this session as it will help inform the Center's strategy across its portfolio and throughout the lifecycles of its models. IMPORTANT NOTE: To encourage participation, attendees may submit written comments or questions before the webinar via the registration page or during the session in the Q&A window. Please indicate if you would prefer not to have your comments read or wish to remain anonymous and we will honor your request.

Wednesday, April 24 | 4:30 - 8pm CDT | The Fight for Black Lives: Screening and Discussion | Knapp Center for Biomedical Discovery (KCBD) | 900 East 57th Street 1st Floor Auditorium | Register Here |

The Fight for Black Lives is a documentary by UChicago Professor of Comparative Human Development and CSRPC Faculty Affiliate Micere Keels. The film chronicles the ways that racial stress and the American healthcare system disadvantage the health of Black Americans. The film weaves together stories of women who were pregnant during the pandemic and Black Lives Matter uprisings, interviews with Black health experts, and historical records to show the many ways that Black women have had to fight for their life and the lives of their infants in the delivery room. These health disparities start at the very beginning of life and the most shocking aspect of this is that the likelihood that Black newborns will die relative to White newborns is higher today than it was in 1900.

Standing Up for Science: A Communication Playbook for the Next Health Emergency* by Lindsey J. Leininger, PhD

Clinical Professor of Business Administration, Tuck School of Business, Dartmouth
Lindsey J. Leininger specializes in data-driven health policy, with a focus on the health care safety net and community health. She has a longstanding interest in publicly funded health insurance programs, with related research spanning quality measurement, risk segmentation, and program evaluation. Her community health work focuses on health education and promotion initiatives. Highlights include leading an award-winning crisis communication campaign during the COVID-19 pandemic; designing and delivering a nationally recognized curriculum for public benefits navigators; and leading the data and research efforts for a home-visiting program for high-risk pregnant women in Wisconsin. At Tuck she teaches courses on data-driven decision-making in the health sector. She also serves as Faculty Director for the Center for Health Care. Prior to Tuck, Lindsey spent a decade designing and leading research and technical assistance projects for Medicaid agencies, both as an academic and as a think-tank researcher.
