

[Margaret]

To find rest in the heavens, martyred through Relinquishing control, a violent fate
For only your purity will save you.

And as a fish impaled upon a hook
Without another option but to pray
To find rest in the heavens, martyred through

A beating whose delivery's undue Eyes turn away at such a bloody state
For only your chastity will save you

A prefect who just cannot be subdued
Whose lustfulness doth push the soul sedate
To find rest in the heavens, delivered through

A Lord whose mercy savèth from the skewed beast sent from Satan's hand, your soul to taint
For only your modesty will save you

In blinding light eternal kingdom drew you home to firmament, a soul ornate
To find rest in the heavens, martyred through...
For only your virginity will save you.