"Spent 45 minutes reading every person's words. Made me cry, warmed my heart, brought a smile - truly beautiful! As a mother, I am now truly inspired to look into becoming a foster parent."

"Very unique and so cool and very important, as a future teacher, to see the diversity of families!"

"Diversity is finding our commonalities, which are far greater and more meaningful than our differences" ♥

COURSE FEEDBACK

"In Our Family: Portraits of All Kinds of Families I was able to appreciate the range of diversity among families in the US. This exhibit presented positive stories, images, and quotes about the numerous differences and similarities in today's families."

"As I was reading through the stories of the diverse families in this exhibit, I was surprised by how much I was able to relate to them!"

"Overall, reading about these families was really a great experience. It opened my world to families and dynamics I didn't even imagine could exist, and now I am more prepared for when I have a student with a diverse background, even more."

"I think that one thing I really learned and took away from this exhibit, is how I could use aspects of this exhibit one day in my classroom as a teacher to help my students learn and appreciate the diversities of other families, as well as the diversities of their own. This photo-text exhibit features many diverse families including: adoptive families, foster families, divorced and stepfamilies, single-parent families, multiracial families, immigrant families, and so many more kinds of diverse families."

"The family exhibit is a great addition to the Curriculum Resource Center. I love how it highlights and celebrates the differences of all kinds of families. This exhibit provides a glimpse into the real life of a variety of family types. I particularly appreciate how there are photographs of the families. I think this aspect of the exhibit really helps one connect to the real life stories of the families."
