

Transcript for Trailer – Crossing Fronteras Podcast Series

SPEAKERS

Joe Aguilar, John Galante

John Galante

Welcome to Crossing Fronteras. I'm your co-host, John Galante, a historian of Latin America focused on migration and transatlantic connections between South America and southern Europe. I'm an Associate Professor at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, otherwise known as WPI.

Joe Aguilar

And I'm your co-host Joe Aguilar. I'm an Assistant Professor at WPI, where I teach Chicano literature and creative writing. I'm a fiction writer and an editor of the award-winning literary magazine Hex.

Our show highlights some of the most exciting contemporary scholarship being done today in Latin American and Caribbean Studies. In this series we're talking to the leading voices in their field, including distinguished filmmakers, writers, musicians, literary scholars, historians, anthropologists, and activists.

John Galante

We'll also hear about their experiences with teaching and their personal journeys and academic trajectories. We'll discover how they found their place in diverse and multidisciplinary fields. And we'll hear a set of really groundbreaking ideas about the future directions of their creative and scholarly pursuits. And we've brought them together here in an eclectic and inspiring series.

Join us for a set of provocative, stimulating, and timely conversations on many issues related to Latin America and the Caribbean wherever you listen to your podcasts.